CALL TO ORDER

Chair Ryan called the meeting to order at 10:06 a.m. Following roll call, a quorum was declared.

ADOPTION OF AGENDA

The motion to adopt the agenda was made by Regent Balducci, seconded by Regent Wright, and adopted by unanimous voice vote.

CHAIR RYAN'S REMARKS

- Chair Ryan welcomed everyone to the first Board meeting of the 2022 Fall semester and noted that the Board has begun to meet in person with some of our Regents joining virtually. She also stated that this fall and spring, the Board will have both hybrid meetings (hosted at System Office and on campuses) and fully virtual meetings.
 - She has also visited campuses and hosted events and shared her excitement about the work going on at CSU:
 - President Cheng's address to the NW CT Chamber Legislative Breakfast hosted at Northwestern CT Community College
 - Dr. Paul Beran's Welcome Event at Western Connecticut State University
- Chair Ryan noted that President Cheng has been well received by all constituent groups as he has made his way around the State and how fortunate CSU is to have him as our leader.

ELECTION OF VICE CHAIR OF THE BOARD OF REGENTS

With the conclusion of Matt Fleury's tenure on the Board of Regents in June, the Governor appointed JoAnn Ryan as Chair of the Board. This left the position of Vice Chair open. Dr. Jim McCarthy has expressed his willingness to serve as Vice Chair of the Board of Regents, if called.

Though Dr. McCarthy has only been a member of this board since June, he brings with him an academic career that spans 45 years in teaching, conducting research, and publishing on topics related to demography and public health. He is already making an impact on the Board's Academic & Student Affairs Committee.

Chair Ryan formally nominate Regent McCarthy to serve as Vice Chair. Regent Balducci seconded the nomination. There were no nominations from the floor.

Regent Porth thanked Dr. McCarthy for his leadership and willingness to serve. Chair Ryan noted that she was looking forward to having Dr. McCarthy as Vice Chair.

The Board unanimously elected Dr. Jim McCarthy to serve as Vice Chair of the Board of Regents effective immediately for a term of three years.

PRESIDENT CHENG'S REMARKS

- President Cheng recognized that this is Hispanic Heritage Month. CSU is proud to have a population of students that grows more diverse every year. The percentage of students who identify as Hispanic or Latino at CSU continues to increase from 14 percent in 2010, to 24 percent in 2021. As campuses become more diverse, they also grow stronger. Diversity, equity, and inclusion is a top priority of CSU, the Board of Regents for Higher Education, and each of our institutions, remaining steadfast in the commitment to foster an environment that is supportive, welcoming, and inclusive to all, while making strides towards a workforce that is reflective of the state and the student body we serve.

- He reported on the successful fall re-opening. COVID is still with us, but it has been managed well by teams on each campus. This has allowed for the return to pre-pandemic normalcy which was hard to grasp not too long ago. President Cheng thanked everyone and noted that we continue to take the virus seriously and have tools in place to respond quickly and effectively if need be. Vaccine clinics will be held on all campuses throughout the semester. He encouraged everyone to receive the new 3rd booster.
- CSCU has been a lead partner in major state-wide initiatives like CT Health Horizons which provides $35 million to bolster healthcare students and programs across Connecticut. We are involved in the Tech Talent Accelerator that will sharpen and create new tech credentials tying our work in higher ed to the needs of industry. CSCU is poised to receive millions of dollars through the state's CareerConnect program to prepare thousands of students for careers in manufacturing, IT, green energy, and healthcare.
- CSCU has received great support from elected officials recently, with visits from U.S. Secretary of Labor Marty Walsh and Congressman Joe Courtney as well as a press event with Congressman John Larson celebrating the Wallet Hub #1 ranking of the community colleges, engagement with U.S. Secretary of Education Miguel Cardona, funding support through the efforts of Senator Richard Blumenthal and Congressman Himes, and Governor Lamont and legislators who champion CSCU's work across the state.
- CSCU has been recognized for our fine work, as new centers and academic programs are launched, communities are supported, and CSCU's rankings and profile increase regionally and nationally. As progress is made, CSCU will publicize new initiatives so all will understand the work our faculty, staff, and students are doing, and the value CSCU institutions bring to every corner of the state.
- President Cheng reported that the unification of our 12 community college campuses is moving along very well, and he is grateful to Dr. Maduko and his leadership team, and all the faculty, staff, and administrators across our system who have helped to move the process forward.
- President Cheng noted that CSCU is the primary engine of social mobility and economic impact for the state. By providing onramps and offramps to education for all of Connecticut's people, CSCU ensures that CSCU students come from Connecticut, are educated and trained in Connecticut, and stay to live and work in Connecticut. We are immensely proud of the achievements of our students and faculty, and the deep commitment and hard work of our administrators and staff.
- CSCU faces challenges every day. There are budget concerns. Enrollment drops, unfunded pension liability, and contractual obligations are real. CSCU institutions and our system will not cut our way out of these budget concerns. CSCU needs more state and extramural support to strengthen and sharpen the academic enterprise and address the infrastructure needs across the system. Leadership is in constant communication with legislators and the governor's office to try to generate support.

- CSCU must take responsibility for what we can control and work together to create solutions for the long term. Working with the presidents, President Cheng has asked them to lead their institutions boldly and intentionally to evolve, to gain efficiencies, and develop new ways of doing business that are more synergized and attuned to what CSCU students need to be successful - to strengthen academic programming and develop new programs that will serve our students and our communities. President Cheng has encouraged them to develop new enrollment tactics and strategies - to be the primary co-authors of our plans so that we work together in a unified effort to achieve system goals for a successful and sustainable future.
- President Cheng recognized Seth Freeman, President of the 4Cs, and his team for the progress we have made on many issues. We continue to find ways to work together to solve problems and create solutions. He also thanked Professors David Blitz and Colena Sesanker, ex-officio members of our board and representatives of the Faculty Advisory Committee for their engagement and partnership as we continue to find ways to collaborate.
- President Cheng welcomed the newest regents, Dr. Jim McCarthy, and Juanita James and the newest CSCU leaders, President Maduko of CT State; System Provost Rai Kathuria; Interim President for WCSU, Dr. Paul Beran; and VP for DEI for CT State, Dr. John-Paul Chaisson-Cardenas. All are dynamic leaders who keenly understand CSCU's strengths and challenges, are deeply committed to CSCU mission, vision, and values, and bring incredible bodies of work and life-experience to our system.

INSTITUTIONAL UPDATE - CT STATE - DR. JOHN MADUKO

Dr. Maduko shared a presentation, CT State Accreditation Progress highlighting the report recently sent to the accrediting body, New England Commission on Higher Education which outlines the progress to date on tasks required to meet standards for accreditation and expectations for the additional two reports due by June 2023 (Attachment A).

- He thanked Dr. Michael Rooke and Dr. Kim Sorrentino for spearheading the efforts in reporting, data collection and working with various stakeholders.
- He also recognized Steve McDowell for his work in the transition of Title IV funds and consolidating the financial aid process, as well as Michael Buccilli for leading the efforts in relation to the Guided Pathway Advisors.
- Dr. Maduko acknowledged Dr. Miah LaPierre-Dreger, interim provost and her team for their work on the alignment of college math and English courses (ACME).
- He cited the work with Ben Barnes and the System Office on the impact of faculty and staff retirements.

President Cheng thanked Dr. Maduko for the presentation and recognized the following members who had comments and questions:

- Regent Balducci asked what was going to be done to alleviate the burden we are putting on the faculty and staff when students arrive on campus without the fundamental skills of math and English. Dr. Maduko stated that he is not a proponent of a deficit mindset. We need to meet the students where they are. He encourages faculty and CT State leadership to develop strategies and a rollout for the ACME co-requisite model, as well as to the constant commitment to assessing students in a way that still respects who they are. He is committed to doing what is necessary while being data-informed.

- Professor Blitz read comments from the FAC concerning the characterization of the FAC's response to the strategic planning process as presented in the September 1 Report to NECHE and the draft Strategic Plan included in that Report (Attachment B). President Cheng thanked Professor Blitz for his engagement. Dr. Maduko stated that the luxury we have is that the document is a draft. If the document contains errors, they can be corrected to accurately reflect who has been involved. There is still time to gather input. Dr. Rooke added that the strategic planning process has had an open invitation to anyone who has wanted to participate in the process. Membership in all CT State working groups is listed in the Appendix of the Substantive Change document. He noted that during both meetings between the FAC and the chairs of the strategic planning work group, an invitation to participate in the process was offered. To his knowledge, the FAC has chosen not to participate.
- Regent James provided follow-up remarks to Regent Balducci's commentary about the burden placed on faculty to manage the lack of preparedness of incoming students. She suggests that we explore partnering with community groups/organizations/institutions to help alleviate some of the burden. She mentioned that in Fairfield County, the philanthropic and no-profit communities have established some very effective pilots working with the local community college systems to help address the additional support needs.
- Commissioner Russell-Tucker added that the collaboration and coordination of the K12 system with higher education is very important. The goal of the K12 system is to make sure that students graduate ready for the next steps in their education. To the extent that the K12 system is not achieving that at the highest levels, it is not about simply moving them along, but everyone working together to provide as much support as possible. The Commissioner referenced a performance-based data portal which includes the College Entrance and Persistence Rates and Trends. M. Rooke noted that he has seen considerable improvement in the readiness of students coming to the community colleges. ACME will go even further in supporting students where they are by providing co-requisite support. The support courses are being developed right now for pilot during the next few semesters.
- President Cheng provided comments about the importance of the partnership with Commissioner Russell-Tucker and the shared commitment to the students entering higher education.

John O'Connor Sociology Professor CCSU

Seth Freeman 4Cs President

President Cheng thanked all who provided public comment. The engagement and dialogue provide opportunity to build collaboration. He encouraged all speakers to work with and through their Senates and institutional mechanisms and leadership teams to get through the work together.

In response to speakers from the university, WCSU Interim President Paul Beran noted that 6 reports from work groups were presented to him and Western's administration during the summer. Conversations will continue as the information is reviewed and analyzed at a deeper level so that decisions can be made. Reorganization and opportunity will be created; the institution will be right-sized in certain places. Graduation and retention rates are not adequate; student-centered initiatives need to be developed to specifically address these two issues.

ACADEMIC & STUDENT AFFAIRS COMMITTEE - Committee Chair Bloom

No report.

AUDIT COMMITTEE - Committee Chair Wright

No report.

FINANCE & INFRASTRUCTURE COMMITTEE - Committee Chair Balducci

Committee Chair Balducci reported that the Finance and Infrastructure Committee met on September 14 to act on several items including an updated policy regarding use of residence halls, a gift of some machining equipment, and approval of our biennial budget baseline submission to OPM. These matters appear on the consent agenda today.

The Committee meeting also included a discussion regarding a change in the schedule for adopting tuition and fees. The administration will ask the Board to approve tuition and fees for the universities in October, for CT State in December, and for Charter Oak early in 2023, rather than doing them all together in February of March as has been the recent practice.

- The reason for approving university tuition sooner is to assist in student recruitment efforts. Not having final tuition and fee approvals until the spring prevents the universities from making final financial aid awards to students and makes the university less able to compete with institutions that are able to make unconditional offers to prospective students.
- CT State has asked for some additional time but will also seek approval of tuition rates before the new calendar year begins.

- Charter Oak prefers to wait to ensure they have more complete information about competitor tuition rates.

Regents were encouraged to review the biennial budget submittal approved on the Consent Agenda. It lays out the scale of the financial challenges because of reliance on one-time funding during the pandemic and in this current year. In addition, costs continue to increase while enrollment and revenue from tuition, room and board continue to be down. These challenges and the adjustments to all budgets will be ongoing discussion items for the Board.

President Cheng reassured the Board and all constituents that work is ongoing with institution presidents to synthesize as much data as possible and make the appropriate recommended adjustments.

HUMAN RESOURCES & ADMINISTRATION COMMITTEE - Committee Chair Howery

No report.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE - Chair Ryan

In addition to the four items that appeared on the Consent Agenda, two items that are included as information items:

- The Freedom of Information Act Public Meetings Guide has been updated and incorporates guidance that has been codified since the pandemic. It will become part of the new Regent Training and will be posted on the website.
- A Regent Mentor Program has been outlined to assist in the onboarding activities for new Regents. Details and structure will be added to the outline over the next several months. Any feedback may be forwarded to Pam Heleen.

EXECUTIVE SESSION

At 11:44 a.m. on a motion by Regent Wright, seconded by Regent Bloom, the Board voted to go into Executive Session for the purpose of discussion concerning the appointment, employment, performance, evaluation, health or dismissal of a public officer or employee. Chair Ryan announced that no votes would be taken in Executive Session and that the meeting will be immediately adjourned following Executive Session. Chair Ryan directed President Cheng and Dr. Pritchard to remain with the Board in Executive Session.

Subject: For inclusion in Minutes of BOR Sept. 22 meeting
Date: Friday, September 23, 2022 1:06:55 PM

The following were my comments on the CSCC “Draft Strategic Plan” which I request be included in the minutes of the Sept. 22 BOR meeting:

“The FAC at its meeting of July 15th discussed the “CT State Community College Draft Strategic Plan through Academic Years 2023-2025”, which I had obtained and previously circulated to members of the FAC. I sent the statement which follows by email on July 21, 2022 to the relevant system officers, but I note that the introductory letter to the draft strategic plan is reproduced without the requested corrections. It appears on p. 28 of the “Progress Report to NECHE” dated Sept. 1, 2022 and linked to item 6, “Institutional Updates” on today’s agenda.

While I realize that the document is marked “Draft (for Review and Feedback)”, it contains serious errors reflective of the kind of problems faculty and staff have faced in the “Students First” process, at least as it has proceeded to date. I will focus on just the cover letter as this is indicative of the flawed process that underlies the document as a whole, and renders it of no value for its intended purpose. On p.1 the draft states the following about the CT State Executive Strategic Planning Council that prepared the draft:

“The inclusiveness of this process cannot be overstated or underestimated. More than 50 people have served on the Council, and membership consisted of faculty, staff, and administrators, with representatives from all the campuses and CT State. Importantly, students have also served as council members. We are thankful to all the Council members, as well as to all the individuals who provided feedback to council members.”

On p. 2 this is followed up with a list of 48 individuals, none of whom are identified as to their status – either in terms of their role as faculty, staff, administrators or students, or in terms of their affiliation to one of 12 “campuses” or “CT State”. It is therefore unclear how many or what proportion of the Council are in any of the constitutive groups previously mentioned. The consequence of this is not just lack of clarity. There is an obscuring of relevant information, which clearly was available to the drafters but which they saw fit to exclude. A preliminary search for affiliations of the indicated individuals reveals very few faculty, and none so far as I can tell from the FAC.

The draft “strategic plan” continues: “We want to also express our deep appreciation to the Faculty Advisory Council to the Board of Regents, who provided honest and earnest feedback during the development of the plan. Each time we engaged the FAC, we got useful feedback from them, and the Council subsequently incorporated their comments into our planning work.”

As chair of the FAC, I can state without hesitation that this is simply not the case. In the first place, the FAC is the Faculty Advisory Committee to the BOR, not the Faculty Advisory Council. This might be considered as a mere slip (which is repeated twice) but the authors of this document compound the error with the claim that the FAC (however designated) provided substantial (“honest and earnest”) feedback, “comments” which were “subsequently incorporated... into our planning work”. This is not the case.

While we did invite at their request and on one occasion each, Tanya Milner (past chair) and Terry Brown (co-chair) to meetings of the FAC, we indicated at both meetings that the content of their presentations were inadequate to anything we could consider to be a framework for a strategic plan. In particular, we noted the lack of any reference to the determining role of faculty in developing curriculum and pedagogy, the lack of guarantee for the continuation of the existing colleges, vague terminology without content about shared governance, and more. Not only is the document fundamentally flawed as to content or lack thereof, the FAC never had any follow-up, or saw, never mind commented, on the draft plan.

Therefore, to claim that faculty in any significant way participated in the draft is unsubstantiated, and the further claim that the FAC contributed in any meaningful way to the draft is incorrect. If this were just a one-off the matter it might be less significant than it is. To the contrary, the problems illustrate a strategy that has been persistently used in the course of Students First – claiming faculty participation in committees from which faculty have withdrawn or merely attended on one or a few occasions, and then claiming – as has been done above --, that faculty have fully participated in preparing a document which most have never have seen or approved.

As a result, please withdraw any statement or implication that the FAC has participated in the drafting of the “Draft Strategic Plan”, and in particular that we provided “feedback ... subsequently incorporated... into our planning work”. I remain available to discuss this matter in greater detail and to consider constructive proposals that could redress the situation. But as it stands, the “Draft Strategic Plan” is unacceptable for the reasons stated above.”

Members of the Board of Regents,

My name is Rotua Lumbantobing and I'm an economist and the AAUP chapter president at Western Connecticut State University.

The last time I addressed this Board, I spoke about the financial crisis Western is facing, and the underlying reasons behind it.

The Board's response to this crisis was to fire John Clark, hire a new university president without any input from faculty members, and retain the rest of the administrators at Western who have made one bad decision after the next.

Our union's response, on the other hand, was to work hand-in-hand with other unions at Western. Over 100 of us spent the summer tirelessly analyzing all available information regarding the university's operations.

It was clear from the start, however, that management sought to continue with business as usual. And as usual, management showed no interest in transparency or shared governance.

Perhaps the most outrageous example of management's complete unwillingness to change is that our working groups were never provided financial data that supposedly illustrates Western's financial position.

I repeat, faculty members – including experts in finance, accounting, economics, and other fields – were never given the financial data that supposedly illustrates Western's financial position. Instead, we had to FOIA information at our own public university.

Meanwhile, a handful of union leaders such as myself were invited to backroom meetings with Western's new president, Paul Beran.

Well as Paul learned, AAUP doesn't do secret meetings at Western anymore. I have no interest in backroom VIP meetings or playing the telephone game with my members.

To his credit, Paul did finally hold an open forum yesterday, where he confirmed his salary - $350,000 a year. This, mind you, is in addition to John Clark's ongoing salary, including a raise, at a university that is ostensibly in financial trouble.

Clearly, management, including this Board, has yet to learn a single lesson from the still unfolding financial crisis at Western.

So here we are, still with no transparency and accountability. Still with the majority of the people who grossly mismanaged this university sitting comfortably in their lucrative jobs. Still with a secretive and defiant Board of Regents.

Well, we won't settle for that. Despite the challenges our summer working groups faced, we persisted. And we are not done.

Thursday, September 22, 2022

Make no mistake, the more you resist our calls for transparency, accountability, and shared governance, the louder those calls will become, until this university becomes the sort of university we, our students, and our community deserve.

Thank you.

BACKGROUND

This 12-credit certificate was approved at a time when the State of CT Professional Development Program (formerly known as CT Charts A Course) for Early Childhood Education recognized the certificate and supported enrollment in the program by providing scholarship funding to students. The current Office of Early Childhood no longer supports this certificate program due to changes in early childhood teacher qualification requirements. At 12 credits, this certificate is below the threshold for students to qualify for federal financial aid. Students thus have neither financial aid nor Office of Early Childhood scholarship funding to utilize to pay for the tuition and related fees. Students are unable to afford the program without these financial supports.

Phase out:

We will provide all students with active enrollment the opportunity to complete the program by the end of spring 2023. There is currently one matriculated student enrolled in the program and one registered to begin in summer semester. There are four additional students who have applied to the program yet lack financial resources to register for courses. When this occurs, students are kept active in terms of admissions status for two terms. If they do not register for courses, their applications are deleted by our admissions office. The one matriculated student has not taken courses for a year now, so she is due for deactivation at the end of spring semester. This is consistent with college policy.

The program will be eliminated from the 2022-2023 catalog and from the admission application. The program director will work with the Admissions Office and Registrar's Office to ensure that the college catalog no longer lists this certificate program as an option for which potential students may apply. Additionally, the program director will work with the marketing team to ensure that content is eliminated from the college website as of July 1st. A statement will be placed on the college website indicating that the certificate program will be discontinued as of July 1, 2022.

RECOMMENDATION

Following its review and deliberative process, it is the recommendation of the Academic Council that the Board of Regents approve the discontinuation of this Certificate. The System's Provost and Senior Vice President for Academic and Students Affairs concurs with this recommendation.

SECTION 2: RATIONALE AND JUSTIFICATION FOR PROGRAM DISCONTINUATION

Narrative

Consider whether discontinuation: a) occurs in the context of a related academic improvement, e.g., the merging of programs with declining enrollment/completions into a new program that effectively addresses relevant state needs and students' interests; b) emerge as a result of the periodic Academic Program Review for all programs at each institution, under the guidance of existing BOR policy; c) other institutional considerations such as redirecting capacity, adoption of new mission, etc. Provide any quantitative information in support of the discontinuation, including any relevant financial information. Program discontinuation should not impact state priorities for workforce preparation.

This 12-credit certificate was approved at a time when the State of CT Professional Development Program (formerly known as CT Charts A Course) for Early Childhood Education recognized the certificate and supported enrollment in the program by providing scholarship funding to students. The current Office of Early Childhood does not support this certificate program due to changes in early childhood teacher qualification requirements. Therefore, students have neither financial aid nor Office of Early Childhood Scholarship funding to utilize to pay for the tuition and related fees. Additionally, teachers working in infant and toddler classrooms make very low wages, so they do not have the funds to pay for this certificate program out of pocket.

Phase Out/Teach Out Strategy

Describe how the institution will ensure that students currently enrolled will be provided opportunities to complete the program. Provide quantitative information as needed (e.g. enrollments, any special resources needed, etc.)

There is currently one matriculated student enrolled in the program and one registered to begin in summer semester. There are four additional students who have applied to the program yet lack financial resources to register for courses. When this occurs, students are kept active in terms of admissions status for two terms. If they do not register for courses, their applications are deleted by our admissions office. The one matriculated student has not taken courses for a year now, so she is due for deactivation at the end of spring semester. This is consistent with college policy.

APPLICATION FOR DISCONTINUATION OF EXISTING PROGRAM

The program will be eliminated from the 2022-2023 catalog and from the admission application. We will provide all students with active enrollment the opportunity to complete the program by the end of spring 2023.

SECTION 3: RESOURCES

Close Out

What resources/costs would be employed and/or expended to discontinue program? What would be the total cost?

The program director will work with the Admissions Office and Registrar's Office to ensure that the college catalog no longer lists this certificate program as an option for potential students to apply for. Additionally, the program director will work with the marketing team to ensure that content is eliminated from the college website as of July 1st. A statement will be placed on the college website indicating that the certificate program will be discontinued as of July 1, 2022.

The courses do not need to be eliminated since they are all still required for students to take as part of the early childhood majors.

SECTION 4: LESSONS LEARNED

(A debriefing exercise):

NOTE: Lessons Learned is knowledge or understanding gained from experience(s) that might be positive or negative, that might underscore strengths or weaknesses of an undertaking's preparation, design or implementation.

Are there lessons learned – experiences distilled from: (a) circumstances that precipitated this program discontinuation, (b) institutional or programmatic action(s) in the face of the referenced circumstances, (c) institutional or programmatic inaction(s) in the face of the referenced circumstances, and/or (d) some other occurrence(s); that can be beneficially shared with / taken into account by current and future programs?

The college continuously evaluates its programs. Since the Infant and Toddler Certificate Program is no longer supported by the scholarship fund of the Office of Early Childhood, and there is no financial aid available to students, it makes sense to eliminate this program. The lesson learned is to maintain programs only when they are of benefit to our students as well as CT communities.

BACKGROUND

This application to discontinue Southern's Information Management and Services (IMS) Bachelor of Science degree program comes after careful consideration of the documented reasons for declining enrollment and follows a self-study in preparation for a scheduled Academic Program Review. A combination of circumstances, including changes in professional standards for workforce preparation, have had an impact on the effectiveness of the program to position graduates for professional positions in the field of library and information science. While it has been a difficult decision, especially given the over 80-year history of this program, it has become clear that changes in professional standards, lower enrollment, and limited resources have all combined to provide justification for discontinuing this once vibrant degree program.

The IMS program is scheduled for Academic Program Review in February 2023. The Information and Library Science Department (ILS) faculty have been preparing for the review by evaluating the effectiveness and value of the program through various means, both internal and external to the University. As a part of that two-year process, the faculty have been engaged in a passionate debate about the value and potential of the undergraduate offering, and have finally, painfully, come to the realization that it is indeed time to sunset the Department's Bachelor of Science degree program.

For many years, SCSU graduates with the Bachelor's Degree in library science, while not qualified for most public or academic library professional positions, could begin their careers as school library media specialists. However, once Connecticut began requiring teachers to have master's degrees, the library science bachelor's program ceased to provide graduates with a marketable degree that qualified them for any professional position in the field. Department alums regularly reported that they were either not working in the field, or they were pursuing (or had pursued) the graduate degree necessary for full library and information science professional participation. It is important to note, however, that a library science bachelor's degree is of no advantage when applying to MLS/MLIS programs, and may even show a lack of proficiency in other valued academic interests.

Since 2017 (the current Program Review period), as the undergraduate program lost relevance and enrollment decreased to an all-time low, the Master's program has been reinvented and re-populated; re-gaining ALA accreditation in June 2020 and showing enrollment growth every year since 2017. With significantly under-enrolled courses, the dwindling undergraduate program expends resources that could be better spent continuing to improve and build on the success of the newly invigorated and accredited graduate program. The discontinuation of the IMS program will not impact state priorities for workforce preparation as the Bachelor's Degree does not meet the standards for library professional employment; as a matter of fact, graduates of the Connecticut Community College Library Certification Program are more adequately prepared for support staff positions in libraries and information centers.

Phase out:

The faculty is committed to shepherding the final classes through the program, and is confident that many of those graduates will ultimately pursue their Master's degree at SCSU. While committed to the needs of current students, the faculty is requesting permission to stop accepting students immediately (beginning of the Spring 2023 semester) and that the IMS program be considered for discontinuation with a sunset date of the end of the Fall 2024 semester.

The department will continue to offer required classes, fully enrolled where possible and as independent study options when not, for the next two years and will advise students to fulfill required courses as quickly as possible. Currently, 14 upper class students expect to graduate by May 2024. The remaining 4 students will be encouraged to finish all department degree requirements by the end of the Fall 2024 semester. In some cases, prerequisites may be waived so that students can fulfill requirements.

There are no additional costs related to the discontinuation of the program. The department has been offering under enrolled courses as needed for at least 5 years and will continue that practice as necessary for four more semesters until required department courses are completed by all currently enrolled students. The SCSU ILS Department firmly believes that the elimination of the undergraduate degree program will allow resources and energy to be redirected to the growing MLIS program, providing an increase in revenue and a more appropriate, balanced, responsible use of University resources

Background: In 1946, the Connecticut State Board of Education authorized a comprehensive undergraduate degree program in Library Science at Southern Connecticut State College. At that time, the degree prepared students to be fully qualified librarians in public, academic, school and special libraries. But today, according to the American Library Association (ALA):

A master's degree in library science (MLS), preferably from an American Library Association (ALA) accredited program, is necessary for most librarian positions in most public, academic, and special libraries. School librarians may not need an MLS, but must meet state teaching requirements.

Beginning in the 1980s, the majority of undergraduate programs in the country, including Southern's, specifically trained school librarians, or school library media specialists. For many years SCSU graduates with the Bachelor's Degree in library science, while not qualified for most public or academic library professional positions, could begin their careers as school library media specialists. However, once Connecticut began requiring teachers to have master's degrees, the library science bachelor's program ceased to provide graduates with a marketable degree that qualified them for any professional position in the field. While an effort was made to pivot the program to include other aspects of information management, there was overlap with the Computer Science Department where the business and application sides of systems were developed to complement their mathematical/theoretical computer science offerings. Programs and courses in areas such as information systems, data management and data mining competed for students looking ahead to similar careers in the same general workforce as IMS students who were now ineligible for professional library positions. Department alums regularly reported that they were either not working in the field, or they were pursuing (or had pursued) the graduate degree necessary for full library and information science professional participation. It is important to note, that a library science bachelor's degree is of no advantage when applying to MLS/MLIS programs, and may even show a lack of proficiency in other valued academic interests.

Current Situation: Since 2017 (the current Program Review period), as the undergraduate program lost relevance and enrollment decreased to an all-time low, the Master's program has been reinvented and re-populated; re-gaining ALA accreditation in June 2020 and showing enrollment growth every year since 2017. The seven ILS faculty members teach both graduate and undergraduate courses. With the undergraduate program dwindling, courses have had enrollment numbers as low as 1 and only as high as 6 or 7. As degree requirements, these sparsely enrolled courses must be offered, sometimes as independent study courses for one or two students, even though the university enrollment minimum is 10. With such under enrolled courses, the dwindling undergraduate program expends resources that could be better spent continuing to improve and build on the success of the newly invigorated and accredited graduate program. The discontinuation of the IMS program will not impact state priorities for workforce preparation as the Bachelor's Degree does not meet the standards for library professional employment; as a matter of fact, graduates of the Connecticut Community College Library Certification Program are more adequately prepared for support staff positions in libraries and information centers.

The forces that ultimately made the undergraduate IMS program irrelevant were primarily outside agencies including the national professional organization, ALA, and the State of Connecticut as they changed and upgraded requirements for entry level employment in libraries and schools. It is possible that the department waited too long to adapt their program, instead initially relying on students to use the undergraduate degree as a stepping stone to their master's, without considering graduates' needs for immediate full-time employment after college. By the time analysis revealed that coursework and learning objectives needed to be adjusted, other departments were already attracting viable students with similar information-related courses of study. The ILS faculty found themselves offering a program that did not fulfill professional requirements and was in direct competition for an associate's degree in the C SCU system that prepared students for para-professional positions.

The SCSU ILS Department firmly believes that the elimination of the undergraduate degree program will allow resources and energy to be redirected to the growing MLIS program, providing an increase in revenue and a more appropriate, balanced, responsible use of University resources.

BACKGROUND

The MS in Counselor Education program was introduced at WCSU in 1974 and has been accredited by the Council for Accreditation of Counseling and Related Education Programs (CACREP) since 1995. CACREP Standards have changed requiring the school counseling program to move from a 48-credit to a 60-credit program to maintain accreditation. The 60-credit program must be in place by July 1, 2023 per CACREP. The Clinical Mental Health option has already been approved for this transition.

The modifications result in an increase in the number of credits required for graduation, moving from 48 to 60 credits per CACREP Standard 1.J. The revised curriculum includes six new courses and five revised courses.

The revised 60 credit program will require an additional 12 semester hours of adjunct faculty to meet instructional needs. Faculty will be teaching 21 credits for the summer session each year (increase of 3) and one additional course in the spring semester in the revised 60 credit program.

It is necessary for staffing levels for core FT faculty to remain in a 1:12 faculty to student ratio per CACREP Standard 1.T. FT staff must also teach more than 50% of the course load each calendar year per CACREP Standard 1.S. Core faculty must meet the CACREP established criteria to be eligible to teach in CACREP accredited programs per CACREP Standard 1.W, 1.X, 1.BB. Given current demand, we anticipate the need for additional staffing in the near future.

Counselor Education is an essential part of the staffing necessary to support school districts, school transition programs in CT. This program is part of our Education Preparation Programs and it has had steady enrollment for decades. Although Central and Southern also offer this degree, WCSU was the first to move our Counseling programs online, with limited requirements to come to campus. National projections for this field suggest 11% growth over the next 10-year period.

RECOMMENDATION

Following its review and deliberative process, it is the recommendation of the Academic Council that the Board of Regents approve this program modification. The System's Provost and Senior Vice President for Academic and Student Affairs concurs with this recommendation.

Description of Resources Needed

The hiring of additional part-time faculty will be required to cover the four additional courses (12 credits) added to the revised program.

- The current program includes four FT faculty members. In addition, 12 semester hours of adjunct and EPY faculty are required during the Fall and Spring semesters to meet instructional needs. Finally, our current program, and this program proposal requires faculty to teach summer courses. Faculty are currently teaching ED 500, ED 587, EPY 509, EPY 601, EPY 620/625, and one elective that rotates for a total of 18 semester hours for the summer session each year.

The revised 60 credit program will require an additional 12 semester hours of adjunct faculty to meet instructional needs. Faculty will be teaching 21 credits for the summer session each year (increase of 3) and one additional course in the spring semester in the revised 60 credit program.

Other Considerations

It is necessary for staffing levels for core FT faculty to remain in a 1:12 faculty to student ratio per CACREP Standard 1.T

- Core faculty must meet the CACREP established criteria to be eligible to teach in CACREP accredited programs per CACREP Standard 1.W, 1.X, 1.BB.

Given current demand, we anticipate the need for additional staffing in the near future.

SECTION 3: RESOURCE AND FINANCIAL CONSIDERATIONS

Cost Effectiveness and Availability of Adequate Resources

- There are 3.5 full-time faculty supporting two Counselor Education Options (School Counseling, and Clinical Mental Health Counseling). The costs listed below represent 50% of their costs, because they support both programs with roughly equal enrollment. The combined programs have approximately 90 students enrolled each year (new cohorts of 40-45).
- Similarly, the Program Coordinator supports both programs, so the salary has been cut in half.
- Finally, this is a year-round program, so the costs and revenues include summer.
- Enrollment estimates reflect our past experience and consideration of the projected employment opportunities for this field. We have calculated at a flat enrollment of 40 students per year.

BACKGROUND

This modification is designed to revise the existing Education Paraprofessional Certificate to the Early Childhood Education (ECE) Certificate to be offered by CT State Community College beginning in Fall 2023. Modifying the existing certificate to align with the CT State curriculum allows for Northwestern to award the certificate to students who will fulfill the requirements for the program in spring 2023. In addition, providing the opportunity to offer this certificate prior to Fall 2023 will support Northwestern's recruitment of students into the ECE field and ensure that students who begin the program at Northwestern prior to Fall 2023 can transition seamlessly to the CT State program.

The revised program maintains two critical ECE courses in the existing curriculum (ECE 182: Child Development and ECE 231 Early Language and Literacy Development) but replaces three courses with two new required courses (ECE 101: Introduction to Early Childhood Education and ECE 215: Exceptional Learners), a choice of two electives (ECE 103: Creative Experiences for Young Children, ECE 109: Science and Math for Young Children, 206: Administration and Supervision of Early Childhood Programs, ECE 225: Anti-Bias, Equity, and Diversity in ECE, ECE 275: Child, Family, and School Relations and EDU 102: Educational Paraprofessional) and two general education courses (English 101: Composition and PSY 111: General Psychology).

The modified certificate is designed to develop skills and knowledge necessary and desirable to work with all young children. Students who complete this certificate can provide the basic aspects of professional childcare and inclusion education such as lesson planning, instruction, guiding student behavior, supporting families, and caring for and monitoring the safety for all young learners including those with special needs. Students with a certificate in ECE will be more marketable for early childhood teaching positions, including teaching assistant and education paraprofessional. In addition, all courses within this certificate can be fully applied to the Associate of Science Degree in ECE.

RECOMMENDATION

Following its review and deliberative process, it is the recommendation of the Academic Council that the Board of Regents approve this program modification. The System's Provost and Senior Vice President for Academic and Student Affairs concurs with this recommendation.

(Please Complete Sections as Applicable)

Background and Rationale (Please provide the context for and need for the proposed modification, and the relationship to the originally approved program)

This modification of the Early Childhood Education Certificate, which includes the addition of nine credits to the program, is fully aligned with the APRC approved Early Childhood Education Certificate for CT State Community College. Providing the opportunity to offer this certificate prior to Fall 2023 will support Northwestern's recruitment of students into the ECE field and ensure that students who begin the program at Northwestern will transition seamlessly to the CT State program. In addition, it allows for Northwestern to award the certificate to students who will fulfill the requirements for the program in spring 2023.

As applicable, please describe:

How does the program address CT workforce needs and/or the wellbeing of CT society/communities? (Succinctly present as much factual evidence and evaluation of stated needs as possible)

The certificate is designed to develop skills and knowledge necessary and desirable to work with all young children. Students who complete this certificate can provide the basic aspects of professional childcare and inclusion education such as lesson planning, instruction, guiding student behavior, supporting families, and caring for and monitoring the safety for all young learners including those with special needs.

- How does the program make use of the strengths of the institution (e.g. curriculum, faculty, resources) and of its distinctive character and/or location?

This all courses within this certificate can be fully applied to the Associate of Science Degree in ECE.

BACKGROUND

Charter Oak State College developed the Speech and Language Pathology Studies (SLPS) Certificate Program in collaboration with the Capital Region Education Council (CREC). CREC has been responsible for the upkeep of courses within the program and courses remain the property of CREC. Because the program has had low enrollment over the past years, CREC is no longer interested in teaching the courses for Charter Oak State College and they do not have the resources at this time to redevelop the courses so that they are reflective of current program outcomes.

Charter Oak State College has cancelled this contract with CREC as of May 15, 2022 and would like to re-envision the program with an up-to-date alignment of the curriculum by hiring new instructors to redevelop and teach the courses. This would also allow the courses to become the property of Charter Oak State College, which is essential for ongoing curriculum maintenance and design.

The admissions department has stopped accepting applications into the program and the college has notified all enrolled students of its plan to suspend the program. Students have been meeting with their academic advisor to plan out their final courses.

There are currently thirteen students enrolled in the program. Eight of these students will take their final practicum course in fall semester 2022. The remaining five students are on a plan to complete their final courses during the fall and spring semester of the 2022-2023 school year and will take their final practicum in fall 2023. This will allow all current students to graduate from the program.

New faculty will be hired to teach out the program and Charter Oak State College will network within the system with institutions offering SLP programs already to write content for its courses.

RECOMMENDATION

It is the recommendation of the System's Provost and Senior Vice President for Academic and Student Affairs that the Board of Regents approve the suspension of this program.

SECTION 2: RATIONALE AND JUSTIFICATION FOR PROGRAM SUSPENSION

Narrative

Please provide reason for requested suspension and plans for follow-up including the sunset date as indicated above.

Charter Oak State College developed the Speech and Language Pathology Studies (SLPS) Certificate Program in collaboration with the Capital Region Education Council (CREC). CREC has been responsible for the upkeep of courses within the program and courses remain the property of CREC. Because the program has had low enrollment over the past years, CREC is no longer interested in teaching the courses for Charter Oak State College and they do not have the resources at this time to redevelop the courses so that they are reflective of current program outcomes.

Charter Oak State College has cancelled this contract with CREC as of May 15, 2022. Charter Oak State College would like to re-envision the program by hiring new instructors to redevelop the courses to ensure an up-to-date alignment of the curriculum, and to teach the courses. This would allow courses to become the property of Charter Oak State College, allowing for management of them in terms of future curriculum upkeep and design.

Phase Out/Teach Out Strategy

Please describe how the institution will ensure that students currently enrolled will be provided opportunities to complete the program. Provide quantitative information as needed (e.g. enrollments, any special resources needed, etc.)

There are currently thirteen students enrolled in the program. Eight of these students will take their final practicum course in fall semester 2022. The remaining five students are on a plan to complete their final courses during the fall and spring semester of the 2022-2023 school year and will take their final practicum in fall 2023. This will allow all current students to graduate from the program.

The admissions department has stopped accepting applications into the program as this plan for program suspension is submitted for approval.

SECTION 3: RESOURCES

Close Out

What resources/costs would be employed and/or expended to suspend program:

The college has notified all enrolled students of its plan to suspend the program. Students have been meeting with their academic advisor to plan out their final courses. No other resources are required with the exception of new faculty being hired to teach out the program.

SECTION 4: LESSONS LEARNED

(A debriefing exercise):

NOTE: Lessons Learned is knowledge or understanding gained from experience(s) that might be positive or negative, that might underscore strengths or weaknesses of an undertaking's preparation, design or implementation.

Are there lessons learned – experiences distilled from: (a) circumstances that precipitated this program suspension, (b) institutional or programmatic action(s) in the face of the referenced circumstances, (c) institutional or programmatic inaction(s) in the face of the referenced circumstances, and/or (d) some other occurrence(s); that can be beneficially shared with / taken into account by current and future programs?

While it can be a positive thing to utilize outside resources to write courses for a program, there are limitations that can come with the college not having control over the courses, especially when courses are standardized to be offered in the online environment. It would be best for Charter Oak State College to network within the BOR system with institutions offering SLP programs already to write content for its courses.

Continuation of a Center

October 20, 2022

RESOLVED: That the Board of Regents for Higher Education approve continuation of a center, the Center for Communication Disorders, at Southern Connecticut State University, until September 30, 2029.

A True Copy:

CT Board of Regents for Higher Education

ITEM

Continuation of a center, the Center for Communication Disorders, at Southern Connecticut State University, until September 31, 2029.

BACKGROUND

The Board of Regents established a new Policy for the Establishment of Centers and Institutes in the Connecticut State Colleges and University System on September 19, 2017. That Policy requires the chief administrative officer of each center or institute in the System to undertake an evaluation of the entity in terms of its achieving its goals and objectives, and to submit a Sunset Report for Continuation or Discontinuation every seven years.

Following the institution's acceptance, the Sunset Report is forwarded to the System Office. This Staff Report, prepared by a staff member within the System's Office of the Provost and Senior Vice-President for Academic and Student Affairs, is a summation of the Center's 2022 Sunset Report.

The Center for Communication Disorders (CCD), an integral component of the Department of Communication Disorders (CMD) of Southern Connecticut State University, is an on-campus speech-language pathology clinic. The mission of the CCD is to provide a variety of family inclusive speech, language and advocacy services for children and adults with communication disorders in the culturally and economically diverse communities of Greater New Haven and its surrounding counties. The CCD serves as a required clinical training venue for undergraduate and graduate students. Clinical services are provided by graduate students working under the supervision of licensed and certified faculty and clinical instructors employed by CMD.

The CCD is a campus-based clinical training venue created to meet the SCSU Department of Communication Disorders graduate program accreditation requirements, assist its students in meeting the academic and professional certification requirements of the American Speech-Language-Hearing Association, and assist the University in meeting its mission of providing "service for the public good". The need for the CCD has remained unchanged.

All undergraduate students in the Department of Communication Disorders (172 in the 2018/2019 academic year) completed 15 hours of direct observation of clinical speech-language pathology clinical services at the CCD for Communication Disorders as a mandatory part of their studies. Direct in-person observations were discontinued due to the pandemic, but will resume in Spring, 2023. Students completed observations using Master Clinician, a commercial platform recognized by the accrediting agency- American Speech-Language Association (ASHA). From 2015 through 2022 over 360 graduate students completed from 75 to 100 hours of supervised direct clinical service within the CCD during the course of their first three on-campus clinical practica. This experience allows them to be placed subsequently in off-campus externships.

Clinical competencies established by each graduate student when working in the CCD are measured each semester, and cumulatively throughout a student's program, using a standards-based competency-rating tool aligned with accreditation and certification standards. 99% percent of graduate students scheduled to graduate in the academic years 2015 through 2022 completed their course of study, including supervised clinical experiences in the CCD, and thus met the requirements for national accreditation from the American Speech-Language Hearing Association, licensure as speech-language pathologists from the Connecticut State Department of Health, and certification as speech-language pathologists by the Connecticut Department of Education.

In the last seven years, 100% of students who completed their graduate studies in CMD, including supervised clinical experiences in the CCD, and who subsequently sought employment as speech-language pathologists, were successful in obtaining part-time or full-time employment. The majority were employed within Connecticut.

RECOMMENDATION

President Joe Bertolino recommends that the Board of Regents approve the continuation of the Center for Communication Disorders at Southern Connecticut State University until September 31, 2029.

Recommendation from President:

I have reviewed the attached report and the following is my recommendation to the Board of Regents:

- ☒ I recommend continuation of this Center/Institute
☐ I recommend discontinuation of this Center/Institute

Comments (OPTIONAL):

I. Mission:

The Center for Communication Disorders (CCD), an integral component of the Department of Communication Disorders (CMD) of Southern Connecticut State University, is an on-campus speech-language pathology clinic. The mission of the CCD is to provide a variety of family inclusive speech, language and advocacy services for children and adults with communication disorders in the culturally and economically diverse communities of Greater New Haven and its surrounding counties. The CCD serves as a required clinical training venue for undergraduate and graduate students. Clinical services are provided by graduate students working under the supervision of licensed and certified faculty and clinical instructors employed by CMD.

II. Needs Assessment:

The CCD is a campus-based clinical training venue created to meet the SCSU Department of Communication Disorders graduate program accreditation requirements, assist its students in meeting the academic and professional certification requirements of the American Speech-Language-Hearing Association, and assist the University in meeting its mission of providing “service for the public good”.

III. Needs Modification:

The need for the CCD has remained unchanged. The population of individuals served under the structure of the CCD was adjusted in FY 2018. Adults who have acquired communication disorders due to neurological events (e.g. stroke, traumatic brain injury, etc.) are now served free of charge through a separate departmental service-learning project, the Access Network. Individuals seen for hearing assessment and hearing aid dispensing are now served through a separate clinic, Southern Connecticut Audiology Services (SCAS). Revenue generated through SCAS is included in annual revenue totals for the CCD. The need for a separate checking account for SCAS was identified and will be pursued. All other speech-language pathology clients continue to be served through the CCD. Medicare recipients are no longer seen in the CCD. This separation was established in order to comply with

CONNECTICUT STATE COLLEGES & UNIVERSITIES

Connecticut State Universities

Center/Institute Report – Seven-Year Sunset Report/Review for Continuation

current Medicare regulations regarding obligatory billing policies for Medicare recipients. It allows the CCD to maintain its direct billing protocol without the expense, billing infrastructure, and service limitations associated with being a Medicare provider, factors that would significantly compromise the function and mission of the CCD. This change in program structure was approved at the University level by the Dean of the College of Health and Human Resources and the Executive Vice President for Finances and Administration.

All on-campus services provided by the CCD were temporarily discontinued on March 17, 2020, due to the shut-down of the university because of the COVID-19 pandemic. Within three weeks approximately 80 percent of clients receiving therapy from the CCD were re-accommodated via remote telepractice free of charge¹. Speech-language pathology diagnostic services were temporarily discontinued at that time. On-campus speech-language pathology diagnostic services were resumed on a limited controlled basis in September, 2020. Currently, the clinic serves approximately 30% of the clients in-person and 70% via telepractice. The CCD will offer more than 90% of services in-person by Spring of 2023.

CCD Goals, Objectives, Principal Activities and Assessment:

The Center for Communication Disorders will:

1. Goal: Provide an on-going clinical experience for the training of graduate students in Speech- Language Pathology
 - a) Objective: the CCD will provide opportunities for guided clinical instruction for approximately 45 graduate students per annual cohort.
Activity/Outcome: 360 graduate of student clinicians were accommodated during 8-year review period.
Assessment: Enrollment data
 - b) Objective: Provide opportunities for graduate students to develop culturally informed clinical practices through direct service experiences with individuals who vary by culture, religion, race, economic circumstances, gender identity and other cultural variables.

¹ According to the guidance of The American Speech and Language Association (ASHA), therapies were conducted via Zoom Healthcare, a HIPAA compliant platform. ASHA also approved clinical hours accrued via telepractice towards the students' graduation requirements during 2019-2021. Per recent guidelines, up to 125 clinical clock hours accrued via telepractice can be counted towards their required hours.

Activity/Outcome: The data reported by students and authorized by clinic instructors indicate students' experience across review period (2015-2018) included individuals representing multiple races, ethnic backgrounds, socio-economic circumstances, gender identities/sexual orientation and different languages. The tracking was discontinued due to COVID-19 pandemic. Currently, the tracking form is under revision to make it more equitable to the clients.

Assessment: Diversity tracking form (See Appendix 1 for template)

- c) Objective: Provide opportunities for graduate students to develop specific clinical knowledge and skills needed to work with children and adults presenting with a variety of types of communication disorders.

Activity/Outcome: CCD clients included children and adults with the following needs: developmental language; school-aged language; articulation/phonology; voice; stuttering; transgender communication; motor-speech disorders; social communication impairment, augmentative communication; adult language-based learning disability; language/literacy.

Assessment: CCD census data/impairment information (see Appendix 2 for Template)

2. Goal: Provide comprehensive quality services, including consultative, preventive, diagnostic, treatment, information-and-referral, and follow-up services to persons of all ages who present communication disorders.

- a) Objective: Maintain an annual CCD client census at or above 250 individuals to ensure adequate student experiences.

Activity/Outcome: On average, 348 clients served per year, 2015-2022.

Assessment: CCD census data

- b) Objective: Provide evidence-based speech-language services to a diverse client population, based on individual needs assessment.

Activity/Outcome: Individual skills assessments and evidence-based reviews completed for each client served; Cultural information infused in academic and clinical instruction.

Assessment: Clinical instructor review – ongoing (See Appendix 3 for rubric)

- c) Objective: Maintain client satisfaction level at or above 90%

Activity/Outcome: 100% overall satisfaction rate reported on client satisfaction surveys for 5-year review period.

Assessment: Client satisfaction survey data collected each semester. (See Appendix 4 for survey template)

- d) Objective: Obtain qualitative feedback regarding professional trends and program outcomes from current and former students and an array of community-based practitioners and leaders and use to refine CCD services and operations.

Activity/Outcome: Focus group interviews were conducted in 2017/2018 and 2021 with current graduate students; recent graduates and post-graduate employers. Positive trends identified included: “Practical application of course content [in clinic]”; “opportunity to interact with clients in the clinic”; “Clinically active faculty”; “well-prepared for externship placements”. Comments for improvement of on-campus clinical experience include suggestions for: increased opportunities for dynamic assessment; increased emphasis on deeper synthesis and critical analysis of clinical information; bilingual service provision; behavioral management.

Assessment: Qualitative analysis of focus group data

3. Goal: Provide the expertise of CCD faculty and staff to the community in advisory or consultative capabilities through presentation of workshops, case conferencing, or program design.

- a) Objective: Provide professional consultation to speech-language pathology service providers in other settings regarding current best practices.

Activity/Outcome: Faculty and clinical instructors have presented research, workshops annually at state and national professional conferences, and ongoing professional consultation to service providers in the communities served by the CCD.

Assessment: Staff survey/updated CVs (See Appendix 5 for sample CV)

4. Goal: Provide objective client advocacy through which additional information concerning clients’ communication can be gathered and directed toward appropriate agencies, with necessary supportive services.

- a) Objective: Establish and implement an individualized case management plan as part of each client’s service plan at the CCD.

Activity/Outcome: Each client treatment plan includes an individualized case management plan identifying actions to take to collaborate with or refer to other service providers.

Assessment: Clinical Instructors review all plans and monitor implementation by student – 100% compliance (See Appendix 6 for sample notes/reports)

Center/Institute Report – Seven-Year Sunset Report/Review for Continuation

5. Goal: Bind together research and clinical practice in order to provide the most efficient, innovative and individualized evidence-based service possible to clients, as well as to develop new and/or alternative methods of assessment, intervention and supervision.
- a) Objective: the CCD will serve as a source of subject referral and setting for clinical research. Clinical instructional staff and student clinicians will engage in collaborative research with program faculty.
- Activity/Outcome: the CCD and its staff collaborated with 8 CMD faculty researchers and their students by participating in research protocols, facilitating subject recruitment, providing clinical materials space, and scheduling clients who agreed to participate in research studies. These collaborations resulted in numerous conference presentations and several publications in the professional literature.
- Assessment: Staff survey/CV

IV. Principal accomplishments since the most recent approval

- The CCD has maintained its clientele of 2784 individuals during the 2015-2022 review period.
- The graduate program in speech-language pathology achieved eight-year academic re-accreditation, based in part on the contributions of the CCD to graduate education.
- At least three full- time Speech-Language Pathology Clinical Instructors, one full-time Speech-Language Pathology Clinic Manager positions were maintained, improving continuity of clinical instruction and clinical service provision. An additional full-time audiology clinical instructor was established to manage the Southern Connecticut Audiology Services, collaborating with CCD staff in addressing the audiological needs of CCD clients.
- The Director of Clinical Education position was added and filled in August 2020 to oversee all aspects of clinical education and support the operations of the department's clinical service programs.
- The CCD instituted enhanced individual and group services addressing the social communication needs of adolescents and adults with autism.
- The CCD collaborated with departmental academic faculty and community agency representatives to establish a therapeutically focused undergraduate academic course on social communication.
- An active transgender voice and communication program was maintained within the CCD, helping support the university's social justice mission.
- The CCD collaborated with Quinnipiac University to implement case-based inter-professional learning opportunities for Communication Disorders graduate students.
- Established and maintained community relationships to provide students with the experience of working in real-world scenarios.

- Implemented processes (Electronic Health Record system and Student data tracking system) to effectively manage paperwork and student data allowing clinical instructors to focus on student education.

V. Faculty, Staff, and Responsibilities:

The Department of Communication Disorders currently employs four full-time speech-language clinical instructors (SUOAF administrative faculty); one Clinic Manager (SUOAF); one Director of Clinical Education, who serves as Director of the Clinical Services Program (i.e., CCD, Access Network and SCAS). Seven academic faculty from the Department of Communication Disorders (AAUP) have served as clinical instructors for the CCD for part of their full-time academic credit load during this review period. Currently, 10 adjunct faculty (AAUP) serve as clinical instructors for a limited credit load. One full-time audiology clinical instructor (SUOAF) supports audiological needs of CCD clients as part of her duties. All clinical instructors, as licensed and credentialed speech-language pathologists and audiologist, provide direct service and case management services to clients of the CCD, and direct supervision and clinical instruction to graduate student clinicians.

VI. Student Involvement and Student Outcomes:

All undergraduate students in the Department of Communication Disorders (172 in the 2018/2019 academic year) completed 15 hours of direct observation of clinical speech-language pathology clinical services at the CCD for Communication Disorders as a mandatory part of their studies. Direct in-person observations were discontinued due to the pandemic but will resume in Spring, 2023. The majority were employed within Connecticut.

VII. Assessment and Evaluation:

(Describe how progress toward meeting goals and objectives has been measured and include a brief description of lessons learned)

Assessment: See section IV for assessment methods and outcomes

Lessons Learned: the CCD continues to be an essential and viable program, supporting the graduate program in speech-language pathology, serving the needs of individuals with communication impairments at SCSU and in the greater New Haven CT community, and actualizing the service mission of SCSU. Stable enrollment in the graduate program and its clinical practica have allowed the CCD to maintain a stable client census and diverse menu of clinical services. Feedback from the professional community, as well as the community-at-large, suggests that the CCD continues to serve a vital role in preparing future speech-language pathologists to meet the critical service needs of the State of Connecticut. Current/future goals for program refinement, based on self-assessment and constituent feedback, include expansion of services to serve the communication needs of critical and/or underserved populations (e.g. autism, transgender voice, AAC); increasing bilingual and racial minority staff; increasing interprofessional experience in the optimally designed and expanded facility within the new SCSU Health and Human Services building.

Budget Narrative:

(Provide any important context about ACTUAL and PROJECTED Revenues and Expenses)

Revenue: The fees for speech-language and central auditory processing evaluations currently range from $100.00 to $350.00. The fee for therapy services is $20.00 per hour. A sliding scale for evaluation and treatment services is available for those of limited financial means. Services are provided at no cost to students, faculty and staff of the SCSU community. Revenue for 2022 reflects revenue as of July 31, 2022.

Fees for therapy services were suspended when the CCD transitioned to telepractice and suspended all on-campus services due to the COVID-19 pandemic (Mar-Aug 2020). Fees for service were resumed in September 2020.

Expenditures: Physical overhead costs are shared with the Department of Communication Disorders, where the CCD is housed. The cost of consumable materials and capital equipment are supported through revenue generated by the CCD and, by occasional one-time-only bond fund allocations. Full-time and adjunct faculty who provide clinical supervision at the CCD are compensated as part of their academic credit assignment as instructors of clinical practica courses. One part-time (50%) position was funded with the CCD fund. Permanent clinical staff members are compensated with an hourly rate or annual salary and benefits package as specified by 1199 and SUOAF union contracts. These costs are assumed in the Departmental budget line for faculty and staff salaries. Graduate assistants and student workers funded by the Dept. maintain the day-to-day clerical operations of the CCD. Overall clinical revenue is projected to maintain at or above pre-pandemic levels. Expenditures will be modified accordingly, and clinic revenue reserves will be used if needed to maintain at levels of service before the pandemic. Excess revenue accrued across fiscal years (reflected in line 17 in the above tables) is being held in reserve in anticipation of major expenditures in capital equipment associated with moving into new clinical facilities in the the School of Health and Human Services building (Move-In commenced Aug. 2022).

*Ending data should be taken with precaution as client only attended 4 sessions and had to temporarily discontinue sessions towards the end of the semester.

Summary:

T.R. is a 10 year-old boy with childhood onset fluency disorder that is characterized by blocks, prolongations, and repetitions with secondary behaviors (eye blinking, pursing lips, averting gaze, raising shoulders). He was initially evaluated at the Center for Communication Disorders in July of 2018 and since, has received individual speech therapy services. T.R.'s caregivers have reported that he does not speak to anyone other than his family members, speech language pathologists, and teachers. Overall, impact of stuttering on his life is severe. Desensitization activities have been performed in previous semesters to address attitudes and feelings towards stuttering and talking to unfamiliar communication partners.

The approach utilized this semester was client-centered and clinician-directed, and the clinician reviewed a variety of strategies for T.R. to choose from in order to improve his communication across various settings. Practice of fluency enhancing techniques (light contacts and easy onsets) were tailored to his previous preferences for using strategies with specific sounds that were difficult for him. For example, he practiced light contacts most frequently with stops (/b/) and fricatives (/s/) and easy onsets with liquids (/l/), glides (/w/), and nasals (/n/). T.R. also practiced stuttering modification strategies (pull-outs) with pseudo stutters (blocks and syllable repetitions) with the clinician in order to help reduce tension in his speech. T.R. benefitted from warm-up activities that focused on light contacts, easy onsets, and pull-outs at the word and sentence-level at the beginning of sessions. Warm-ups would aid T.R. in use of strategies during a reading-level structured task as less cognitive energy is needed and more focus can be spent on strategy use. Emerging generalization of his strategies were observed during the reading task as he chose which strategies to use and when to use them. Additionally, T.R. improved his reading skills by slowing down his speech and taking the necessary pauses in between sentences. At the discourse-level, T.R.'s used light contacts and easy onsets most frequently indicating emerging generalization of those strategies.

At the beginning of the semester, T.R. disclosed feeling anxious when he spoke to his baseball coach for the first time (at the end of the Spring semester) indicating he is self-aware of his feelings towards talking. Therefore, desensitization activities where discussions of avoidant behaviors of not talking were prioritized. While T.R. exhibited moments of discomfort during desensitization activities, he engaged in conversation about his brother who stutters during a structured activity suggesting he is more open to discussing his brother in the context of stuttering based on previous semesters.

The clinician provided modeling, verbal feedback, and prompting to T.R. throughout the semester for additional support.

T.R. attended 4/9 individual tele-therapy sessions on Zoom this semester. He actively participated in all session activities and worked diligently towards all of his goals this semester.

Prognosis Statement: Prognosis for T.R. to improve his verbal communication and positive attitude toward speaking is good given familial support, progress to date, consistent participation and his active role in

RESOLUTION

concerning

Continuation, Name Change, and Revised Mission of a Center

October 20, 2022

RESOLVED: That the Board of Regents for Higher Education approve continuation of a center, including a name change from Center for Sustainable Energy Studies to Center for Sustainability Studies, and revision of mission, at Eastern Connecticut State University, until September 30, 2029.

A True Copy:

Alice Pritchard, Secretary of the
CT Board of Regents for Higher Education

ITEM

Continuation of a center, including a name change from Center for Sustainable Energy Studies to Center for Sustainability Studies, and revision of mission, at Eastern Connecticut State University, until September 31, 2029.

BACKGROUND

The Board of Regents established a new Policy for the Establishment of Centers and Institutes in the Connecticut State Colleges and University System on September 19, 2017. That Policy requires the chief administrative officer of each center or institute in the System to undertake an evaluation of the entity in terms of its achieving its goals and objectives, and to submit a Sunset Report for Continuation or Discontinuation every seven years.

Following the institution's acceptance, the Sunset Report is forwarded to the System Office. This Staff Report, prepared by a staff member within the System's Office of the Provost and Senior Vice-President for Academic and Student Affairs, is a summation of the Center's 2022 Sunset Report.

The President of ECSU described "concerns about energy conservation and energy efficiency" in Connecticut and globally and the need for greater emphasis on: research and undergraduate education that prepared Connecticut graduates to put to practice the theory, and learn the interdisciplinary approaches needed to ensure that energy research, policy, the creative process for enacting of solutions to energy conservation and efficiency problems met the challenges emerging in Connecticut and globally.

The needs expressed in the original document are even more pressing today than in 2000 and they have intensified since the last renewal in 2015. It is broadly recognized that to meet the challenges posed by climate change, interdisciplinary knowledge and skills are required. In addition to supporting research and education in sustainable energy studies, the Center will broaden its reach to develop and administer an interdisciplinary sustainability curriculum. Research and teaching will include the study of energy, mineral extraction, natural resource conservation, biodiversity conservation, environmental economics, environmental policy, and environmental justice. This interdisciplinary experience is increasingly important to prepare students to understand and engage with a wide range of energy, environmental, and geopolitical issues critical to mitigating and adapting to climate change. This curriculum will empower students to take advantage of new business opportunities, to engage in research, and to enter the workforce with a clear understanding of the important issues and the skills to move society toward a sustainable future. The revisions to mission and vision will align and strengthen the liberal arts mission of Eastern Connecticut State University.

Eastern Connecticut State University seeks approval for a change of the name of the center and its mission to the following: The mission of the renamed Center for Sustainability Studies is to engage in research and to provide curriculum that actively engages students with sustainability issues including climate change and the disproportionate impact environmental crises have on marginalize communities and racial minority populations. The Center endeavors to prepare students to enter the workforce or graduate studies through training in the scientific, environmental, economic, political, and social aspects of sustainability science and policy.

Since 2015, the coursework provided by the Center for Sustainable Energy Studies faculty (Endowed Chair, full-time temporary and tenure-track faculty, and part-time faculty) has continued to serve Eastern's academic programs associated with the Sustainable Energy Science concentration of the major in Environmental Earth Science (EES), the Bachelor of General Studies in Sustainable Energy Management, the minor in Sustainable Energy Studies and Eastern's Liberal Arts Core Curriculum natural science coursework in Tier I, Tier II and Tier III courses. As of Fall 2020, the Endowed Chair position has been vacant. Collaboration with faculty with environmental research focus in other Eastern academic departments has led to improved scores in the STARS rating system of the American Association of Sustainability in Higher Education (AASHE).

Five courses (25 course sections-BES 204, EES 205, EES 207, EES 305, EES 306, EES 402, EES 405), senior practicum projects, and internships are provided by the Center-affiliated faculty, reaching an average of 516 students per year in EES Sustainable Energy Science concentration, BGS in Sustainable Energy Studies, Sustainable Energy Studies minor and the Liberal Arts Core curriculum. The EES department graduates an average of 20 students each Spring semester, many from the Energy Science concentration in the major.

RECOMMENDATION

President Elsa Nunez recommends that the Board of Regents approve the continuation of the Center for Sustainable Energy Studies, with a name change to Center for Sustainability Studies, and revision of mission, at Eastern Connecticut State University, until September 31, 2029.

Center/Institute Report – Seven-Year Sunset Report/Review for Continuation

Mission:

Prior mission: The mission of the Center for Sustainable Energy Studies is to engage in energy research, to enable students to understand the crucial role and impacts of energy resources and energy consumption in society and to prepare students for post-graduate employment and advanced education through the study of the scientific, environmental, economic, political, and social implications of energy science and energy policy. Energy research and study includes energy conservation and efficiency, environmental impacts associated with energy consumption, conventional and renewable energy industries, energy resources and energy uses, energy management, energy politics, and current developments in energy science, energy technology, energy economics, energy-related business, and public energy policy.

In 2022 the name of the Center and its mission have been revised:

The mission of the Center for Sustainability Studies is to engage in research and to provide curriculum that actively engages students with sustainability issues including climate change and the disproportionate impact environmental crises have on marginalized communities and racial minority populations. The Center endeavors to prepare students to enter the workforce or graduate studies through training in the scientific, environmental, economic, political, and social aspects of sustainability science and policy.

5. The Center's work is coordinated by the Director of Sustainability Studies and supported by the endowment originally set up by the Energy Conservation Management Board with funds from the Northeast Utilities and United Illuminating.

Principal Accomplishments:

(List the Center/Institute's principal accomplishments since its last report. Attach a chronological list of the Center/Institute major activities over the course of the past five years; under specific, relevant categories such as research, papers, conferences, presentations, workshops, sponsored events, exhibits, etc.)

Since 2015, the coursework provided by the Center for Sustainable Energy Studies faculty (Endowed Chair, full-time temporary and tenure-track faculty, and part-time faculty) has continued to serve Eastern's academic programs associated with the Sustainable Energy Science concentration of the major in Environmental Earth Science (EES), the Bachelor of General Studies in Sustainable Energy Management, the minor in Sustainable Energy Studies and Eastern's Liberal Arts Core Curriculum natural science coursework in Tier I, Tier II and Tier III courses. As of Fall 2020, the Endowed Chair position has been vacant. Collaboration with faculty with environmental research focus in other Eastern academic departments has led to improved scores in the STARS rating system of the American Association of Sustainability in Higher Education (AASHE).

Curriculum

The Sustainable Energy Studies minor prepares students to understand the scientific, environmental, economic, and political forces important to energy uses. This includes fossil fuels and increasingly more efficient use of energy and renewable energy technologies such as hydroelectricity, fuel cells, solar energy, and wind energy. The Environmental Health Sciences minor explores the inter-relationship between human activities, natural earth processes, ecological processes, and geochemistry. The Environmental Earth Science major provides a broad education in environmental earth science with a strong foundation in geoscience, using classroom, laboratory, and field-based learning. The curriculum stresses the materials, processes, and features of the Earth, Earth history and the ways in which earth scientists address scientific, societal, and environmental problems.

Each of these paths of study emphasizes field research, independent study, and internships with private consulting firms and government agencies, to offer students the opportunity to apply the skills they have learned. Students frequently present their findings at local, regional, and national conferences.

As natural resource use increases, environmental problems such as climate change, water pollution, and land degradation become more difficult to mitigate. Sea level rise, which will inundate low-lying areas, is a particular concern for Connecticut. Site analysis, geological mapping, hydrological testing, and GIS (Geographic Information Systems) analysis are examples of the techniques used to prepare our students to confront these growing problems. Classroom demonstration items include a solar powered engine, bicycle generator, and solar cookers. Field trips are included for students to gain practical experience for material learned in class (physical plants, combined cycle gas power plant, hydroelectric facility, wastewater treatment and water recovery).

Research

Students and faculty continued to conduct research, present it at local and regional conferences and obtain grant funding to support the research projects.

Faculty, Staff, and Responsibilities:

(Specify Director/Coordinator, Departments/Disciplines of Members, and Time Commitment for each and changes of personnel over time)

Tenure-track and part-time faculty provide coursework in Sustainability Studies to support the Center's curriculum, student mentoring, research and public outreach activities.

Dr. Stephen Nathan - geothermal and climate change expertise.

Endowed Chair, Dr. Paul Torcellini, served as Director for the Center for Sustainable Energy Studies (CSES), with one course release time for his directing activities, and nine faculty load credits per semester to provide curriculum for the academic programs supported by the CSES 2014 until his resignation in 2020. This position remains unoccupied at this time.

For any given semester, up to four part-time adjunct faculty continue to teach introduction laboratory and courses per semester representing 4-5 distinct sections. Courses include: EES 204, EES 205, EES 207, EES 306, and EES 405.

Student Involvement and Student Outcomes:

(If applicable, discuss Center/Institute's impact upon the university's students; specifically, what was the nature of student involvement and how many students were involved with Center/Institute activities; what were the resultant student outcomes of that involvement stated numerically. Student outcomes may include such measures as learning outcomes, achievement, persistence, graduation, employment and graduate school placements. Along with or without student involvement and student outcome; a focus of the Center/Institute's mission might be public engagement/outreach. If so, that construct should be discussed here.)

Students served by the Sustainable Energy Studies curriculum

Five courses (25 course sections – EES 204, EES 205, EES 207, EES 305, EES 306, EES 402, EES 405) senior practicum projects and internships are provided by the Center-affiliated faculty, reaching an average of 516 students per year in EES Sustainable Energy Science concentration, BGS in Sustainable Energy Studies, Sustainable Energy Studies minor and the Liberal Arts Core curriculum. The EES department graduates an average of 20 students each Spring semester, many from the Energy Science concentration in the major.

CT BOARD OF REGENTS FOR HIGHER EDUCATION

concerning

Continuation, Name Change, and Revised Mission of an Institute

October 20, 2022

RESOLVED: That the Board of Regents for Higher Education approve continuation of an institute, including a name change from Institute for Sustainable Energy to Institute for Sustainability, and revision of mission, at Eastern Connecticut State University, until September 30, 2029, with an interim report to be submitted to the Academic & Student Affairs Committee of the BOR no later than December 2025.

A True Copy:

Alice Pritchard, Secretary of the
CT Board of Regents for Higher Education

ITEM

Continuation of an institute, including a name change from Institute for Sustainable Energy to Institute for Sustainability, and revision of mission, at Eastern Connecticut State University, until September 31, 2029, with an interim report to be submitted to the Academic & Student Affairs Committee of the BOR no later than December 2025.

BACKGROUND

The Board of Regents established a new Policy for the Establishment of Centers and Institutes in the Connecticut State Colleges and University System on September 19, 2017. That Policy requires the chief administrative officer of each center or institute in the System to undertake an evaluation of the entity in terms of its achieving its goals and objectives, and to submit a Sunset Report for Continuation or Discontinuation every seven years.

Following the institution's acceptance, the Sunset Report is forwarded to the System Office. This Staff Report, prepared by a staff member within the System's Office of the Provost and Senior Vice-President for Academic and Student Affairs, is a summation of the Center's 2022 Sunset Report.

The Institute for Sustainable Energy (ISE) at Eastern Connecticut State University was established in 2000 by Board of Trustees Resolution 00-76 and modified by the Board of Advisors in 2008 to focus ISE's efforts on Connecticut. The mission was revised in 2008: "...to identify, develop and become an objective energy and educational resource regarding the means for achieving a sustainable energy future for Connecticut. "

Eastern Connecticut State University seeks approval for a change of the name of the institute and its mission to the following: The mission of the Institute for Sustainability (IS) at Eastern Connecticut State University is to serve as an objective resource and champion for the transition to sustainable practices in Connecticut. The work of IS will support diverse and bold actions required by the United Nations 2030 Agenda for sustainable development and resilience: for people, prosperity, and planet. The IS will connect individuals, organizations, businesses, and communities in Connecticut to meet the challenges of our changing climate.

The Institute was created to provide an objective resource to help educate, inform public policy, and provide technical support on practical applications for energy efficiency and sustainable energy to improve the energy profile and sustainability of the state.

This a critical decade for taking bold steps to avoid the effects of climate change. To achieve the carbon-neutrality commitments of the university and to accelerate its impact within the CSCU system and across the state, the Institute for Sustainability (formerly ISE) diversified its mission and vision. A sustainable society in the time of climate change will require significant changes in behavior by individuals, communities, and governments. Climate action cannot be limited to the energy sector, but is also required in natural resource management, biodiversity conservation, and equitable access to quality education, prosperity, and civic engagement for marginalized communities and racial minorities. In the spirit of the UNESCO Education for Sustainable Development (ESD) program, IS will harness partnerships and collaborations, communicate for climate action, track climate and sustainability issues and trends, mobilize resources, and monitor progress with the individuals, businesses, organizations, and communities of Connecticut to advance sustainable practices. The vision for the Institute aligns with and strengthens the liberal arts mission of Eastern Connecticut State University.

The Institute has employed paid student interns. Student interns represented a broad range of academic majors including Business Administration, Accounting, General Studies, Communications, Environmental Earth Science, and Sustainable Energy. The student interns provided valuable work on the following projects: energy benchmarking, grant application preparation, data analysis, web site development and maintenance, research on sustainable technologies and practices, aggregating data and preparing reports on Eastern sustainability actions and greenhouse gas emissions, waste audits, development of outreach materials and educational videos, development of curriculum. The internships provide valuable professional workplace experience. Interns participate in a wide range of work projects, with a focus on one or two specific projects, resulting in excellent work experience and references.

The Institute has also provided successful for credit internship opportunities for Eastern students. These credit internships have fulfilled the academic requirements of students majoring in Communications, Business, Geography, Political Science, Marketing, and Environmental Earth Science and have included projects on GIS mapping, research on electric vehicles and solar power, tracking of Connecticut energy legislation, development of website, video, marketing and outreach materials, and analysis of Connecticut ranking in the national energy efficiency scorecard.

With the revision of its mission and objectives, the Institute seeks ways to increase the number and diversity of sustainability internship opportunities within the Institute and working for diverse partners across Connecticut. The Institute will carefully track experience and outcomes for these interns.

RECOMMENDATION

President Elsa Nunez recommends that the Board of Regents approve the continuation of the Institute for Sustainable Energy, with a name change to Institute for Sustainability, and revision of mission, at Eastern Connecticut State University, until September 31, 2029, with an interim report to be submitted to the Academic & Student Affairs Committee of the BOR no later than December 2025.

Center/Institute Report - Seven-Year Sunset Report/Review for Continuation

Mission:

(Provide the mission of the Center/Institute; note any changes from the most recent approval)

The Institute for Sustainable Energy (ISE) at Eastern Connecticut State University was established in 2000 by Board of Trustees Resolution 00-76 and modified by the Board of Advisors in 2008 to focus ISE's efforts on Connecticut. The mission was revised in 2008: "...to identify, develop and become an objective energy and educational resource regarding the means for achieving a sustainable energy future for Connecticut. "

In 2022, the name of the institute and its mission were revised.

The mission of the Institute for Sustainability (IS) at Eastern Connecticut State University is to serve as an objective resource and champion for the transition to sustainable practices in Connecticut. The work of IS will support diverse and bold actions required by the United Nations 2030 Agenda for sustainable development and resilience: for people, prosperity, and planet. The IS will connect individuals, organizations, businesses, and communities in Connecticut to meet the challenges of our changing climate.

Needs Assessment:

(Describe why this Center/Institute was created)

The Institute was created to provide an objective resource to help educate, inform public policy, and provide technical support on practical applications for energy efficiency and sustainable energy to improve the energy profile and sustainability of the state.

Needs Modification:

(Describe how the need for this Center/Institute may have changed)

This a critical decade in which we must take bold steps to avoid the effects of climate change. To achieve the carbon-neutrality commitments of the university and to accelerate our impact within the CSCU system and across the state, the Institute for Sustainability (formerly ISE) diversified its mission and vision. A sustainable society in the time of climate change will require significant changes in behavior by individuals, communities, and governments. Climate action cannot be limited to the energy sector, but is also required in natural resource management, biodiversity conservation, and equitable access to quality education, prosperity, and civic engagement for marginalized communities and racial minorities. In the spirit of the UNESCO Education for Sustainable Development (ESD) program, IS will harness partnerships and collaborations, communicate for climate action, track climate and sustainability issues and trends, mobilize resources, and monitor progress with the individuals, businesses, organizations, and communities of Connecticut to advance sustainable practices. The vision for the Institute aligns with and strengthens the liberal arts mission of Eastern Connecticut State University.

Student Involvement and Student Outcomes:

(If applicable, discuss Center/Institute's impact upon the university's students; specifically, what was the nature of student involvement and how many students were involved with Center/Institute activities; what were the resultant student outcomes of that involvement stated numerically. Student outcomes may include such measures as learning outcomes, achievement, persistence, graduation, employment and graduate school placements. Along with or without student involvement and student outcome; a focus of the Center/Institute's mission might be public engagement/outreach. If so, that construct should be discussed here.)

ISE Student Interns: ISE has employed paid student interns. ISE student interns represented a broad range of academic majors including Business Administration, Accounting, General Studies, Communications, Environmental Earth Science, and Sustainable Energy. The student interns provided valuable work on the following ISE projects: energy benchmarking, grant application preparation, data analysis, web site development and maintenance, research on sustainable technologies and practices, aggregating data and preparing reports on Eastern sustainability actions and greenhouse gas emissions, waste audits, development of outreach materials and educational videos, development of curriculum. The internships provide valuable professional workplace experience. Interns participate in a wide range of ISE work projects, with a focus on one or two specific projects, resulting in excellent work experience and references.

ISE Credit Interns: ISE has also provided successful for credit internship opportunities for Eastern students. These credit internships have fulfilled the academic requirements of students majoring in Communications, Business, Geography, Political Science, Marketing, and Environmental Earth Science and have included projects on GIS mapping, research on electric vehicles and solar power, tracking of Connecticut energy legislation, development of website, video, marketing and outreach materials, and analysis of Connecticut ranking in the national energy efficiency scorecard.

With the revision of its mission and objectives, the Institute seeks ways to increase the number and diversity of sustainability internship opportunities within the Institute and working for diverse partners across Connecticut. The IS will carefully track experience and outcomes for these interns.

Center/Institute Report - Seven-Year Sunset Report/Review for Continuation

(Describe how progress toward meeting goals and objectives has been measured and include a brief description of lessons learned)

The Institute's work and performance is assessed, measured, and evaluated through the following means:

The Director reports to the President of Eastern Connecticut State University. This consists of bi-weekly meetings, annual reports to the extended staff meeting, and an annual performance evaluation. Initially, the Institute's largest funding source was the Connecticut Energy Efficiency Fund, managed by the Energy Efficiency Board (EEB). The Director participated in monthly meetings of the Commercial and Industrial Committee, provided updates on progress, work, and performance metrics. The Director provided informal updates to the EEB 3-4 times/year and presented an annual update to the EEB each year. More recently, the model moved to multiple, smaller grant-funded initiatives, the Institute submitted quarterly, annual, and final reports as required by each funder. Most, recently, grant funding supported the work of ISE/Sustainable CT. The Director reported to the Board of Advisors annually.

Budget Narrative:

(Provide any important context about ACTUAL and PROJECTED Revenues and Expenses)

As noted in the narrative above, the Institute is working to broaden, diversify, and stabilize funding sources and anticipates progress in this area over the next 5 years.

Notes on ACTUAL budgets (2018 - 2022):

- Indirect: 5%; university reduced indirect rate charged to ISE partly to offset increases in state employee salary and fringe rates.
- Drawdown reflects the departure of SustainableCT with the retirement of the Director

Notes on PROJECTED budgets (2023-2027):

- Personnel: Executive Director salary and student interns during academic year $15/hr; 120hrs/semester.
- Fringe: Employee fringe rate and student rate during the academic year: 0.54%
- Projected Revenue:
 - Grant revenue is conservatively estimated based on anticipated potential revenue from multiple sources to support IS new mission activity.

To fund the operations of the Institute under a new mission and vision, we are exploring a variety of granting opportunities related all topics of sustainability and that align with the talents and expertise of the university faculty, could provide funding to grow the expertise of the Institute in important areas of impact, or facilitate Institute-Community partnerships.

CONNECTICUT STATE UNIVERSITY

FY2024 TUITION AND FEES

October 20, 2022

- WHEREAS, The BOR in accord with Connecticut General Statute section 10a-99(a), shall fix fees for tuition and shall fix fees for such other purposes as the board deems necessary at the state universities; and
- WHEREAS, The State Universities must fund wage increases and other expenses necessary to ensure the high quality of the education they provide to students, and
- WHEREAS, The State Universities have identified strategies to increase enrollment by out-of-state students in order to address recent steep enrollment declines, and
- WHEREAS, The proposals for tuition and fees as presented were developed through discussions among stakeholders, including University Presidents, who arrived at the consensus that CSCU is best served by implementing modest inflationary tuition and mandatory fee increases at our institutions, therefore be it
- RESOLVED, That the FY2024 rates reflected on the attached report and schedules are effective at each state university as appropriate, and be it further
- RESOLVED, That the Universities shall charge the rate identified for participants in the New England Board of Higher Education’s regional tuition program, the “NEBHE Rate,” to students from New York and New Jersey in addition to New England states, and be it further
- RESOLVED, That the Universities shall have the option to charge the NEBHE Rate for additional states or all states outside of Connecticut, and be it further
- RESOLVED, That the Universities shall have the option to charge students from New York and New Jersey the same rate as identified for Connecticut resident students; and be it further
- RESOLVED, That the President of CSCU in facilitating Board-approved policies, may make limited and necessary adjustments to tuition and fees to conform with these policies, provided that the adjustments shall not increase the combined cost of tuition and fees as established by the BOR, so as to not increase costs to students, and that said adjustments will be promptly communicated to the Finance and Infrastructure Committee of the Board for their review, and be it further

RESOLVED, That said rate adjustments may be reconsidered by the BOR should circumstances warrant.

Board of Regents for Higher Education

ACTION ITEM

Summary

The Universities have previously sought approval of tuition and fees in February for the following academic year but recommend that earlier approval allows them to finalize financial aid packaging to new and returning students more quickly.

This recommendation will increase tuition at a lower rate than our costs are expected to rise for salaries, fringe benefits, energy, and other expenditures, given ongoing inflation and our settled labor agreements. Our enrollment at the universities dropped in the fall of 2022 by 3.7% from the prior year

Based on preliminary spending projections for the upcoming biennium, it would require tuition and fee increases of more than $2000 on average to make up for one-time revenues in our budget today. An increase of that magnitude would harm students and suppress enrollment. The tuition and fees recommended here are intended to balance the following factors:

- Maintaining affordability for the cost to students.
- Expected level of State Support.
- Cost of existing wage agreements (4.5% increase in salary) and fringe benefits.
- Inflationary increases in all other expenses mandated by existing contracts or agreements.
- Required revenue
- Student enrollment impacts.

This tuition and fee recommendation includes continuation of the tuition policy approved last year which allows the universities to extend NEBHE and In-State tuition rates to students from adjoining and other states.

Fiscal 2024 Tuition and Fees at the State Universities

State Universities are proposing an increase of $184 per semester or $15 per credit for in-state undergraduate tuition and mandatory fees for the academic year that begins in the Fall of 2023, as detailed in the chart below:

	SYSTEMWIDE AVERAGE
	Academic Year		$ Increase
	Actual FY2022-23	Proposed FY2023-24	Per Semester	Per Credit
Undergraduate In-State
Full-time Students
Tuition	$6,470	$6,664	$97	$8
University General Fee	4,743	4,886	72	6
University Fee	994	1,024	15	1
Total, Commuting Student	$12,207	$12,574	$184	$15

The proposed changes to undergraduate tuition and fees include:

- Tuition to be increased by $97 per semester or $8 per credit for all in-state undergraduate students.
- University General Fee is to be increased by $72 per semester or $6 per credit to meet the cost of fee-supported programs
- University Fee, based on debt service required on CHEFA bonds, is to be increased by $15 per semester or $1 per credit; the same rate applies to in-state, out-of-state, and NEBHE students.
- Housing Fee based on the cost to operate facilities and type of facility; cost varies campus-by-campus.
- Food Service Fees are dependent upon the food service contract; cost varies campus-by-campus based on specific contract terms and increases in food costs.
- Extension fees represent fees charged for courses offered during summer and winter sessions.
- Student activity fees are approved by Student Government Association to support student clubs, organizations, and professional development and campus activities.
- Media Fees are approved by the Student Government Association.
- Residence Hall Social Fees are also approved by the Government Association, and funds are used for student activities, trips, and multiple campus events throughout the academic year.

State Universities are recommending the following tuition and fee changes to in-state graduate students for the academic year that begins in the Fall of 2023:

	SYSTEMWIDE AVERAGE
	Academic Year		$ Increase
	Actual FY2022-23	Proposed FY2023-24	Per Semester	Per Credit
Graduate In-State
Full-time Students
Tuition	$8,058	$8,300	$121	$10
University General Fee	4,743	4,886	72	6
University Fee	994	1,024	15	1
Total, Commuting Student	$13,795	$14,210	$208	$17

Impact on University Revenue

The Universities are establishing tuition and fees in advance of knowing the level of approved State funding for FY2024, or even the Governor's recommendation that will be made in February. The projected revenue from tuition and fees increase provides an additional $13.4 million before adjusting for anticipated financial aid, waivers, and bad debt expense. However, it does not provide the revenue needed to meet the collective bargaining requirements as well as other current services operating needs. As costs continue to increase, the universities, the Board of Regents, and ultimately the State, are all faced with long-term challenges to maintain and adapt these institutions.

Based on the Biennial budget request for FY2024, State Universities anticipate receiving an additional $28 million to cover last year's SEBAC agreement, a continuation of operating fund fringe paid by the State ($25.2 m) and additional funds for operations support to cover CSCU's projected FY2024 shortfall of $56.9 million.

These table below shows the State Universities' requested state funds in the upcoming biennial budget:

	Appropriated FY2023	Requested FY2024
State Support:
State Appropriation	$154.2	$154.2
RSA Adjustment	20.2	28.0
Provide Support for Salary Cost of the 27th Payroll	5.0	-
Addtl State Approp (Dev Edu and O'Neil Chair)	2.0	2.1
Fringe Benefits Paid By State	167.7	185.5
Additional OF Fringe Paid by State	25.2	25.2
Deficiency Funding for Wages (Leg. Source ARPA FY23)	14.5	-
Provide Operations Support	66.6	56.9
	$455.5	$451.9

Proposed adjustments to Tier II fees are included in Attachment A as requested by each University and described below.

Central Connecticut State University

Central proposes an increase of $71 in the Housing fee and $52 in the Food Services fee per semester, this reflects the overhead costs associated with this activity and the increase in food costs.

Beginning with the Fall 2023 semester, Central's tuition structure for the Data Mining program will be the same as the standard graduate tuition rate.

As a reminder, the increase to the Orientation fee approved for FY21 from $125 to $150 was not implemented in FY22, the fee will be effective beginning with Fall 2023.

Eastern Connecticut State University

Eastern proposes an increase of $130 to the Housing fee and $97 to the Food Service fee per semester respectively to recover the associated overhead costs and increased in food costs.

No changes to Tier II fees are requested, all Tier II fees remain at the FY2023 levels.

Southern Connecticut State University

Southern is increasing the Housing fee by $152 and the Food Service fee by $161 based on the market analysis and the need to recover the overhead costs associated with each activity and the increase in food costs.

Southern does not have any changes to Tier II fees.

Western Connecticut State University

Western proposes an increase to the Housing fee of $105 and $154 to the Food Service fee based on their market analysis and projected increase in food costs.

In addition, Western requested the Ed.D Evaluation Fee of $100 to be eliminated beginning with the Fall 2023 semester. Proposed changes to program fees for Music, Art, Theatre, and Musical Theatre programs in the School of Virtual Performing Arts are in effect starting Fall 2022.

All other Tier II Fees remain at the FY 23 levels.

RECOMMENDATION

Staff recommends the adoption of the included resolution, including by reference the tuition and fee schedules.
