ITEM

Award of the Title Connecticut State University Professor to James W. Russell

BACKGROUND

In 1987, at the request of the Board of Trustees for Connecticut State University, the title Connecticut State University Professor was created to recognize outstanding merit among the teaching faculty in the System. Each university is limited to three such designated scholars at any time. To attain the designation, a faculty member must be nominated through a committee procedure which is advisory to the University President, receive the recommendations of the University President and CSU Chancellor, and receive approval of the Board of Trustees. CSU Professors receive a salary 10 percent higher than they would otherwise receive for their rank and years of service.

ANALYSIS

Dr. Russell is a prolific writer, scholar, and lecturer, and has presented dozens of professional papers throughout the United States and abroad. He was the recipient of a two-year Fulbright Award for study in Mexico (1990-1992), served a five-year term as Fulbright Senior Specialist (2001-2006), and as a Republic Fellow to the Salzburg Seminar on Race, Ethnicity and Migration in Europe (2003), and as a visiting researcher in Madrid, Spain (2004). Dr. Russell is a respected authority in the field of Sociology and is recognized by his colleagues for his professional excellence.

The designation of CSU Professor for Dr. James W. Russell has been recommended by President Carter and Chancellor Cibes and is in compliance with the provisions of the AAUP contract.

CHANCELLOR'S RECOMMENDATION

The resolution awarding the title of Connecticut State University Professor to Eastern Connecticut State University Professor James W. Russell should be approved.
